Introduction

The importance of environmental studies and human rights cannot be disputed. The need for sustainable development is a key to the future of mankind. It is clear that no citizen of the earth can afford to be ignorant of environment issues. India is rich in biodiversity which provides various resources for the people. In spite of the fearful status of the environment we live, it is high time that more priority is given to environment related studies in our academic programme. Another area of concern is to have an understanding about human rights and its basics.

Since this is a newly introduced course in the syllabi of M.G. University, many faculties may find it difficult to deal with the subject. To overcome this, Internal Quality Assurance Cell of Sree Sankara Vidyapeetom College is organizing a one-day Faculty Development Programme on the topic - Environmental Studies and Human Rights.

Objectives

The aim of the workshop is to provide an orientation to the faculty of all UG programmes to deal with the new subject " Environmental studies and Human rights " in the V Semester UG Course of Mahatma Gandhi University. The FDP will help them in understanding the need for environment education and the implications of their decisions and actions on the environment. Human rights education will also be covered in the sessions to build a responsible future generation. Teachers will be provided an outline of the syllabus to be covered by them and how to impart the knowledge to the students.
